Updates from the Advising Team:

Welcome to our Coordinated Care newsletter! We are thrilled to share with you the latest developments in our mission to provide the best support to our students.

Ian Triana, Business Advisor, will be in his new office (AAR 111) on Tuesdays and Thursdays. He will remain in the Advising Center (ADC 163) on Mondays and Wednesdays. Ian is now additionally advising in the areas of IT and Health & Fitness.

Devin Hendricks, STEM Advisor, has relocated her office to Main 200B. During her leave, STEM students will be directed to their faculty advisors.

We are also initiating training for Open Doors advisors to assist in advising General Transfer students.

Please let us know if you have any updates you would like to be shared!

Resource Spotlight Navigate Templates

Did you know that you can save time by creating message templates in Navigate?

Here's how:

1. Log in to Navigate.
2. Click your initials in the top right corner.
3. Select "Content Templates."

From there, you can create your own SMS and email templates to upload when messaging students!

Red Devil Welcome Days

This fall, LCC launched an exciting new event: Red Devil Welcome Days.

The orientation event took place in the two Fridays preceding the start of the quarter.

Services included campus tours, help with financial aid, textbooks, class schedules, and more. The event also featured snacks, swag, and a meet-and-greet with President Seimears!

Advising Feedback: What Are Students Saying?

“ I'm even more excited to start up again knowing that I have the support of my advisor in addition to the support I have at home. ”

“ My advisor was very sweet and extremely helpful! She made me feel comfortable during this highly stressful time of application! ”

“ I felt very comfortable, supported and well informed. ”

“ [My] advisor was knowledgeable, very caring and willing to help. ”

“ [My advisor] was really kind and understanding. She was able to answer my questions thoroughly. I felt comfortable speaking with her and am excited to begin classes to further my education. ”

Welcome to Our New Advisors!

Troy Shorey
College and Career Prep (CCP) Advisor

Troy Shorey comes to LCC with a background in Special Education, having worked as a special education instructor for 13 years.

He has worked with high school students with various disabilities, spending 3 years at Lebanon High School and 10 years at Crescent Valley High School in Corvallis, Oregon. His classes included a male-designated class that covered self-awareness, gender identity, disability awareness, and career and college readiness.

Troy also taught seniors important life skills such as completing tax forms, applying for jobs, writing cover letters, creating resumes, budgeting, and more. Additionally, he assisted students in reading their transcripts and enrolling in classes to prepare for graduation. In his last six years at Crescent Valley, Troy also served as the varsity volleyball team coach.

Welcome to Our New Advisors!

Maggie Miller

Running Start Advisor

Maggie was a middle school counselor for three years before beginning her LCC Running Start Advising position. She has always wanted to work with high school students and has a goal in mind of college advising, so this position couldn't be any more perfect for her!

She has a passion for supporting students and creating unique solutions based on students' unique circumstances. She attended Washington State University and earned her Bachelor's degree in Human Development. She is currently finishing her Masters in Education School Counseling from Grand Canyon University.

Something that has been a major accomplishment for her is continuing her education through her Masters program while working full-time - first as a middle school counselor and now an LCC Running Start Advisor.

Her hobbies include reading, hiking, making jewelry, and spending lots of time with her friends and her family. She is mostly looking forward to the school year and getting to support students with their educational needs and beyond!

Rebekah Villanti

Career Pathway Advisor - Health Sciences

Rebekah has recently joined the LCC team as a Career Pathways Advisor in the pathway of Health Sciences and Wellness.

Originally from Oregon, she studied English at Oregon State University and Business Administration at Western Governors University. She comes from a background in business management and training, and has always been passionate about higher education and helping others achieve their goals.

She is very happy to join the community and excited to be assisting students through their academic journeys at LCC.
